

Beef Cattle Breeds

1. Developed from a homozygous recessive red gene of the black dominant gene
2. Continental breed, originated in France, solid white and is lean and muscular
3. Bos Indicus cattle, developed in the US, heat and parasite resistant
4. Terminal breed, extremely lean and muscular, solid white with black hide ,very large framed
5. Reddish-Gold breed, developed in Germany, high growth rate and muscularity
6. British breed, adaptable and hardy, characterized by a white face and red body
7. Maternal type cattle, high milk production, vary in color from red, white, to roan
8. "Business breed",solid black, has excellent carcass quality
9. "Profit through science", originated in Switzerland, excellent growth rate and milk production
10. Continental, fast-growing breed,originated in France, golden to red with lighter pigment around eyes and belly

Beef Cattle Breeds

1. Developed from a homozygous recessive red gene of the black dominant gene
2. Continental breed, originated in France, solid white and is lean and muscular
3. Bos Indicus cattle, developed in the US, heat and parasite resistant
4. Terminal breed, extremely lean and muscular, solid white with black hide, very large framed
5. Reddish-Gold breed, developed in Germany, high growth rate and muscularity
6. British breed, adaptable and hardy, characterized by a white face and red body
7. Maternal type cattle, high milk production, vary in color from red, white, to roan
8. "Business breed", solid black, has excellent carcass quality
9. "Profit through science", originated in Switzerland, excellent growth rate and milk production
10. Continental, fast-growing breed, originated in France, golden to red with lighter pigment around eyes and belly